

James Gandolfini is widely known for his lead role as Tony Soprano in the HBO hit series The Sopranos. However, around Puppies Behind Bars (PBB), we have borne witness to a more compassionate character. From visiting the Warrior Transition Unit at the United States Military Academy, West Point, to observing a PBB puppy class at the Mid-Orange Correctional Facility, to producing the documentary Alive Day Memories: Home From Iraq, featuring ten wounded Iraq War vets, Mr. Gandolfini is dedicated to improving the lives of those who have served our country. While visiting West Point, Mr. Gandolfini was introduced to Puppies Behind Bars via a 4-month-old yellow Labrador puppy named "Lucky" who, along with countless other PBB pups, visits West Point's Warrior Transition Unit on a weekly basis. What advice did Mr. Gandolfini scribble on the puppy's jacket? "Lucky, don't screw up!" We are honored that Mr. Gandolfini is committed to helping PBB meet our anonymous $100,000 challenge grant for Dog Tags — who better to have on our side?

Dog Tags: Service Dogs for Those Who've Served Us was initiated by Puppies Behind Bars in 2007 to supply service dogs, free of charge, to veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan who suffer from physical injuries or Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). Due to the generosity of an anonymous donor, we have been awarded a $100,000 challenge grant that will match all donations, dollar for dollar. Help us reach our goal to raise the full $200,000 by September 19, 2008.

Puppies Behind Bars trains prison inmates to raise service dogs for the disabled and explosive detection canines for law enforcement. The puppies live in prison with their puppy raisers from the age of eight weeks to eighteen months. As the puppies mature into well-loved, well-behaved dogs, their raisers learn what it means to contribute to society rather than take from it.
